Highway Robbery Charge Also.

John Murphy arrested and fined $3 and costs in Montpelier Thursday for intoxication will be notified before his release of a more serious offense, that of highway robbery. It is charged that he stopped Morton Sweetser, a Middlesex farmer, in the three-mile bridge on Wednesday afternoon and asked him to change a $10 bill. Mr. Sweetser was in a team. He was obliging and while he was handling the money getting ready to make the change, it is alleged that Murphy grabbed for the money and succeeded in snatching $5 from Mr. Sweetser's hand. He then disappeared.

Later he was arrested by the sheriff's department, who received a call from Middlesex that a man was drunk there. Sweetser later complained to Sheriff Tracy and State's Attorney Gates.

Murphy claims to hail from Boston and has friends in this city, from whom he expected to get his fine. When arranging for the fine, he evidently did not think that the officers knew anything about the hold-up.

According to the police Mr. and Mrs. Cole and a friend, Marian A. Allen, spent the evening around town until half-past eleven o'clock, when Mr. Cole left the two women and went home. Mrs. Cole and Miss Allen reached the house later, and after some trouble Mr. Cole signified his intention of going somewhere else to spend the night. Vermont Ranks Second.

Slate is one of the important mineral products of our state and it is gratifying to note the continued prosperity of the slate industry in spite of unfavorable conditions. The value of the slate quarries and sold in the United States in 1907, as reported by the United States geological survey, amounts to $6,019,220, an increase of $250,374 over that of 1906, and the largest value since 1903, which must still be reckoned the year of greatest production.

The increase was made principally in the production of slate for roofing, the purpose of which most of the slate quarried in the United States is applied.

The prices for roofing slate were higher in 1907 than they were during the two preceding years. Both exports and imports of slate are insignificant.

An advance chapter of "Mineral Resources of the United States" calendar year 1907, on the production of slate, now ready for distribution by the United States geological survey, gives statistics of production and in amount of the slate industry by states according to this authority Pennsylvania is still the largest producer, Vermont ranking second. These two states produced in 1907 more than 85 per cent. of the entire slate output of the country.—Burlington Free Press.
